JEWISH FAMILY SERVICES WELCOMES INTERIM CEO/PRESIDENT TOM MARTIN

Milwaukee, WI - Tom Martin, former President & CEO of Family Services of Northeast Wisconsin (FSNEW) in Green Bay, WI, has been appointed Interim President/CEO of Jewish Family Services (JFS), effective January 1, 2016. Martin will fill in for current JFS President/CEO Sylvan Leabman, who is retiring at the end of December.

Martin retired from FSNEW in March 2014, after serving the agency for 27 years as Executive Director. Under his leadership, the organization grew from seven programs and 89 employees to more than 35 programs and a staff of nearly 400. FSNEW provides more than 18,000 families throughout Northeast Wisconsin with Counseling/Treatment Services, Early Childhood Development, Crisis Services, At-Risk Youth Programs and Self-Sufficiency Programs. Prior to FSNEW, Martin served as President/CEO of Boys and Girls Home and Family Service Inc., in Sioux City, IA, for over 12 years.

"This is an exciting time for JFS, and I'm happy to offer my guidance and expertise during this time of transition as the agency plans for the future," said Tom Martin.

The JFS Transition Task Force, chaired by Steve Zimmerman, continues their search for a permanent President/CEO.
